

DECODING THE PAST:

MUSIC, HISTORY AND ART IN A CHOIR LEAF AT UML

SPEAKERS:

Timothy Crain

Assistant Teaching Professor, Music

Christopher Carlsmith

Professor, Chair of History

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 30, 2019 • 3:30-4:30 p.m.

UMass Lowell

O'Leary Library's Mezzanine

61 Wilder Street, Lowell

Free & open to the public

Light refreshments will be served

In spring 2019, UMass Lowell received a gift of a large parchment choir leaf, on which the words and music of a portion of the Kyrie Eleison have been inscribed. The provenance and history of this unusual artifact remain unknown; it may be from as early as the Middle Ages or as late as the 17th century. The speakers will offer observations and analysis of this remarkable example of history, music, and art.

SPONSORED BY: Medieval-Renaissance Studies, Dept. of History, Dept. of Music.

For additional information, please contact
Christopher Carlsmith at Christopher_Carlsmith@uml.edu.